Why monitoring helps you and your fish health.

By combining data on water quality and catches, you gain valuable insights into how your fish are performing and identify the best locations and times for fishing. This allows you to better instruct your anglers, enhancing their experience and enjoyment.

When values become critical or start to deteriorate, you can respond quickly to prevent poor fish health or, in the worst case, fish deaths.

No more manual measurements and note-taking. All your water data is now available in our cloud platform, which will alert you when values fall below your set thresholds.

Real-time monitoring without any effort

With our sensor kit, you can easily monitor water quality anywhere in your water body, including oxygen levels, water depth, temperature, air pressure, and more. By directly linking these values to your catches, you can identify the conditions under which fish perform best and take action accordingly.

Our sensor kit operates via a cellular connection and can be powered by our solar kit, ensuring easy installation and reliable performance anywhere.

Bait

Unlock endless insights from data you had never before

Data collected can be displayed in various ways and over selectable time periods, allowing you to easily view the results over a specific period. For instance, you can see which bait types are most successful in each season. Additionally, you can identify the best fishing spots during different times of the year, enabling you to make better decisions to provide anglers with the best possible experience.

Add chip tracking Your fish stock is chipped?

If your fish are chipped, catches can be linked to the chip number, providing precise details on when and where each fish is caught, the bait used, weather conditions, and its growth over time.

This provides endless options to monitor your fish's condition and take proactive measures before it's too late.

Track catches

Give you and your angles great tools

Discover our user-friendly interface designed for effortless catch registration. Anglers can quickly log their catches and add essential details with ease. This not only enhances their fishing experience but also provides you with valuable insights to optimize your operations. Streamline catch management and boost engagement with our intuitive tool today!

A simple way to capture catches digital

Gain insight into your pond's catches while providing anglers with a tool to monitor and manage their own catches. Anglers can log their catches by specific locations within their spot, record various parameters, and use this data to improve their results during their stay or review past catches for future bookings.

By giving anglers this tool, registering their catches becomes enjoyable rather than a hassle. It enhances their interaction with their fishing session while allowing you to leverage this valuable data for crucial insights.

Management Platform

Everything in one place

Discover our management platform, where you can easily access key data about your fishing waters. View recent catches, water quality, weather information, bookings, orders, and an interactive map with catches and reservations, all in one streamlined interface.

You can grant access to various users and customize their permissions to view only the relevant information for their roles.

Say goodbye to paper hassle

Say goodbye to the hassle of paper records! Our solution transforms the way you manage catch data. No more struggling with handwritten logs or spending hours digitizing and analyzing information.

With our platform, anglers can easily record their catches in real time, while you receive seamless, accurate data ready for immediate analysis.

Embrace a modern, efficient approach that saves time and enhances accuracy, letting you focus on what truly matters, improving your fishing operations and enhancing the experience for your anglers.

Shopping

Offer your products through our app

With our integrated shop, you can offer local products such as bait, fishing gear, meals, and rental items to your anglers.

Anglers can reserve these products, and you will receive a notification to deliver them to the fishing spot or arrange for pickup. Payments can be made in cash or directly through the interface if preferred.

This setup allows you to easily manage your inventory and provide anglers with clear visibility of the products and services you offer.

Privacy and Convenience

No registration or login required for your anglers.

We understand that many anglers dislike registering and entering personal details. That's why we offer access to the app using only a unique booking code. You can send this code via email or provide it as a QR code upon arrival. Anglers simply follow the link or scan the QR code to access the app and start recording their catches—no hassle, just simplicity.

Anglers have full control over their privacy with our system. They can decide whether to share their catch photos with you or keep them private.

If an angler wishes, they can register and create an account. This allows them to link multiple bookings to their account, making it easier to track and review their past and current sessions in one convenient place.

Intergration with booking systems

If your booking system allows, we can integrate it with our platform. This means you won't need to enter bookings twice, and anglers will automatically receive an email granting them access to the system.

Most modern booking systems come with integration options, so connecting ours should be seamless and hassle-free.

Pricing

We offer custom quotes designed to meet your specific needs.

Our pricing is based on the number of fishing spots in your pond and the various features you wish to incorporate into your system. Whether you're looking to implement advanced water quality monitoring, detailed catch tracking, or integrate with your existing booking system, we'll work with you to create a package that perfectly aligns with your requirements.

This personalized approach ensures you only pay for what you need, maximizing value and efficiency for your operation.
